PRESIDENT'S REPORT

2018 has turned into a busy and productive year for the American Spaniel Club and your Board of Directors.

As we come to the end of the year, it is a time of giving thanks, celebration and of reflection.

Throughout this year I have been thankful for all the support of the membership for a productive and positive year of growth for the American Spaniel Club. We have welcomed new members, and have said a fond farewell to those who have crossed the bridge.

Those we have lost will remain in our hearts, but often I am asked whether there is something special that the ASC can do in remembrance. As a club we pay tribute to those members at our annual meeting. But each of you also has the opportunity to remind the club of a member who was special to you. There is a group of members, for example, who decided that they would make trophy pledges in one member's memory for the 2019 Flushing Spaniel Show. There are other creative ways to do something similar. You might consider getting a group together to place ads in the Bulletin as a remembrance. Or perhaps consider donating to the ASC Foundation eye research, or offer the Foundation items for the silent auction. I'm sure there are other ideas as well.

By now members should have received the club's annual mailing containing the dues notice, Bulletin flyer and notice of the results of the National Nominating Committee. I wanted to publicly thank all of the members who stepped up to volunteer to serve on the Board of Directors this year. There was a limited number of vacancies (three Directors at Large) this year, but there was a much larger number of people interested in serving than I can recall in recent years. It's encouraging to see how many of our members are interested in taking part in the activities of the club. I want to assure the members who expressed an interest in serving on the Board and others who might consider stepping forward that we will need your energy and enthusiasm in the months ahead!

It's hard to believe we are closing in on another Flushing Spaniel Show. The 2019 show is back at the Holiday Inn in Knoxville, TN. Our block of rooms there is filled, however, if you need a room, please get in touch with show chairman Jane Williams.

For the first time in almost 40 years, the American Spaniel Club is welcoming back the Irish Water Spaniel to the Flushing Spaniel Show. The Irish Water Spaniel Club of America is exhibiting the breed's joy of life by hosting an independent specialty in its first year back. Please make the IWS exhibitors feel welcome!

ASC Judges Education Coordinator Nancy Gallant has also booked the breed as one of three for judge's education seminars on Friday of the Flushing Spaniel Show weekend. Cocker Spaniels are scheduled for 9:00am, Irish Water Spaniels at 11:00am and Field Spaniels at 1:30pm. A reminder that Judges Education Seminars are open to anyone who would like to attend. It's a great refresher on breed standards, whether you plan to apply to judge or not. Reach out to Nancy Gallant if you would like to attend.

I'm also looking forward to our celebration of Cocker Spaniels in Orlando at the AKC National. I know we will have another outstanding Meet the Breeds booth on Friday! The club appreciates all the hard work that is done each year on putting the booths together in both Orlando and New York. For those of you who can attend, please stop by and show your suppor. Also, plan to be at ringside that week if you can to put your hands together in support of all the folks showing Cocker Spaniels in whatever events they may be competing. After all, we know Cockers do it all!

IN OTHER NEWS ...

The latest report on the ASC Foundation's eye research is on the ASC website. You can find it under About the ASC by clicking on the ASC Foundation link.

A website content review is ongoing with the help of some new volunteers to guide it forward. Among other things, the website coordinators are looking for candid photos of Cocker Spaniels. Please reach out to Kelly Ladouceur or Deann Jepson if you can help.

Thank you all for a terrific 2018. I look forward to working with all of you in 2019!

Getting to Know
The Swedish Breed Club
– American Cocker Circle

by Karin Linde Klerholm

The Swedish breed club, ACC, is yet to become a member of the American Spaniel Club, but it has a long and rich history in preserving and developing the breed.

Founded back in 1973 by true enthusiasts, with some of them still active to this day, the main goal for the club at the time was to fight Juvenile Cataracts, bringing information to the Swedish breeders on how to go about eye examinations and the possible hereditary aspect of this dreaded disease. There were only a few Oftalmogists in the country at the time being able to diagnose and guide the breeders in their work. That has of course changed over time, and there are now plenty of highly trained eye specialists all over the country. The goal for the club has not changed with time though, and every single eye exam is on public record through the Swedish Kennel Club's database, listing all the eye diseases there are and hip score results. There is no hiding in Sweden, everybody knows the result of the exam the minute it is registered by the KC!

In Sweden, all the breed clubs are required to have a Breed Specific Breeding Strategy published, and all members of the breed club and the KC are obliged to follow it (you have to be a member of the KC in order to register your puppies, so EVERYBODY is a member).

The strategy is composed by four parts:

History and analysis of the breeding structure within the country, i.e. listing the percentage of the inbreeding and the most used sires that are responsible for that, encouraging the breeders to use less related sires in the future in order to keep the breed as healthy as possible.

The Health section is describing the top 10 diseases that the breed encounters in the country, based on the statistics from the animal insurance companies in Sweden – nearly ALL purebred dogs are insured in Sweden, so the statistics are quite reliable.

Each eye disease that the breed can develop is described in detail and the club has an "Eye-Policy" on what is allowed to continue breeding on, and you are obliged to follow that as a member. Complete eye and hip-statistics are also presented, so you get the full picture of the situation of the breed and development over time.

The Confirmation section lists the official standard as approved by the Swedish KC and the FCI, translated from the AKC standard. Since each dog gets a written critique when being shown in Sweden and these critiques are transcribed and published, we get a pretty good picture of what confirmation parts we need to work harder on for the future development of the breed.

The Mentality section describes the desired temperament of the breed and what kind of work it was bred for to perform in the field, and also lists all the working and temperament tests available and the statistics of the breed on those different tests.

This Breed Specific Breeding Strategy should be revised every 5th year with new statistics and descriptions of the development of the breed within the country.

The Swedish KC usually registers 55-60.000 dogs a year, all-breed. All puppies in a litter have to be registered. The Cockers have decreased in registrations over time, from approx. 560 in the heyday of the 90'ies to around 250 a year nowadays. This is both a good and a bad trend for the breed, some lines have disappeared completely and some have gotten very dominant over time. At the same time most all litters are very carefully planned since it is difficult to sell puppies in a less popular breed. The breeders know what they are doing and are utilizing the knowledge from the database and breeding policy together with the knowledge acquired from the breeders in the USA.

THE SWEDISH NATIONAL

Since Sweden is a rather small country, with a population of only 10 million people, and rather oblong in geographical shape, you have to travel some distance to go to any show (not the same distances Americans are travelling by no means). The Swedish National was therefore from the beginning placed nearly in the middle of the country to attract as many exhibitors as possible.

Trophy table at this year's National

The main objective of the Swedish National has always been to gain more knowledge about the breed, from the "country of origin experts", seeking guidance on how to proceed in the further development of our breeding, handling and grooming skills.

The visiting judges are usually bombarded with questions at the dinner after the show, which all exhibitors try to attend. After a little good food and drink, most exhibitors dare to speak some English and everybody has a good time. Many friendships have formed over the years, resulting in new imports coming into the country. Proud to say, these imports have been utilized carefully with good results. The Swedish breeders have been able to steer clear of major problems like PRA, slipped stifles and thyroid through those imports for the most part.

To the right, you will find a list of all the Americans breeder/handlers/judges that have officiated at the Swedish National. Those marked with a * after their name have in one way or the other contributed with their lines into the Swedish Cocker genepool.

The first show with American judges was held in 1978 and from that year onward the club has invited American breeders/handlers/judges to judge the Swedish National. The show is an Open show, i.e. no points are awarded at this show, but it is the BIGGEST Cocker event of the year and it is considered to be the highest HONOUR to win it! The largest entry ever was in 1989 with 147 Cockers entered under Mr. Bob Covey. The judging started promptly at 9AM and ended at 10PM!!! Nowadays, the entry is around 100 Cockers which is considered a huge entry when regular KC shows draws around 10-20 Cockers competing together in all varieties, just like in Canada.

At the Swedish National the Varieties are separated from each other, American style. Puppies are judged first, separated from the adults. A BIS puppy is crowned and then the adult dogs follow for the regular BIS.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Here is Mr. Tom Dowell, this year's judge, giving his view on the Swedish National:

"It was my privilege to judge the Swedish American Cocker National in this lovely country. While it was certainly a different judging experience compared to how things are done in the USA it didn't take me long to get in the rhythm. I was very pleased with the quality of the dogs brought to me. Out of an entry of 90 I only had one incorrect bite and a majority of them had nice sized teeth. I was extremely pleased with the temperaments on ALL the dogs. For me that is the most important trait a cocker can possess, "Above all the cocker must be merry".

In the Puppy Competition all the youngsters were nice and certainly set the stage for a bright future of up and coming cockers in Sweden. There were quite a few puppies that made my judging very easy and it was a pleasure to watch them learning the ring. The very handsome Speedwagons Cash N' Go was my choice for Best Puppy In Show. This Red and White youngster is everything I like to see in a puppy. Beautiful Cocker type and nicely proportioned body. The later is what allowed him to effortlessly cover ground which is a very important part of the Sporting dog's conformation. I was very pleased with the bone and substance on the youngsters I judged.

In the regular competition with few exceptions the quality was well above average. Bone and substance abounded in all three varieties. Coat quality was very nice as well. I will say these classes was where it became very apparent to me that in my humble opinion the Swedish fanciers need to be less shy of their grooming equipment. Most times there was way too much hair left on dogs. As a thirty six year veteran in cockers I more than understand the fear of taking too much hair but it is just hair and it will grow back. Leaving excessive coat just makes the cocker look unkept while trimming to the outline of the dog not only cleans them up but accentuates that beautiful outline. Please understand I am not talking about sculpting an incorrect dog into the appearance of a correct one but again accentuating the beauty of this compact smallest of the Sporting breeds. For me one of the most widely known and loved features on our cockers are their heads. It is what almost every person speaks of when they look at or talk about a cocker. Leaving excessive hair on their top knots only serves to ruin the appearance of that beautiful face and soft expression. The other thing that I found myself continually saying when directing a class was "slow down and move at a moderate pace". Let me assure the Swedish exhibitors they are not the only ones that have this problem. Somewhere along the line it became fashionable to move our cockers at a MUCH faster pace then they would ever move at in the field. We are breeding to a standard for a sporting dog required to cover ground for long periods of time. NO dog would cover much ground for very long moving hell bent for glory. It has been my experience that flashy does not mean correct it just means flashy.

My Parti color Best of Variety was a nice bitch, Ch Speedwagon's True Colors. Well boned, nice coat and very free moving. She was an easy choice to make.

In the ASCOB variety I had several dogs that were rather restricted in their front movement. They all possessed lovely type but once on the ground the lack of correct construction became apparent. From the Veteran class I selected my Best of Variety winner, the lovely bitch Ch Trouper's Hot Choice. She has wonderful type, correct coat along with very nice angles both front and back. Those angles became even more apparent once she was moving around the ring as she covered ground effortlessly.

Then came the Black Variety, again I was faced with some very difficult decisions as the quality was very nice. Ultimately my choice for the Black Variety as well as Best In Show was from the champion class, the b/t Ch Trouper's Like It Hot. For me this bitch absolutely epitomizes our cocker standard. Wonderful angles, beautiful type, lovely coat and she was beautifully presented. I found it difficult to find any fault with her other than she wasn't in my kennel. ❞

The Swedish exhibitors should be very proud of the work they have obviously done in concentrating on breeding correct cockers. The entry I had in Sweden would have been extremely competitive with the entry I had at the Cocker National last year in St. Louis, MO.

So, as you can see, the future of the breed is looking bright across the Atlantic, however the Swedish breeders could not have done it without all the wonderful and hard-working breeders in the USA, willing to share their knowledge and dogs with the Swedish fanciers.

THANK YOU!

Nosework – Exterior Searches

by Kelly Ladouceur

In most organizations, the final component of scent work is the exterior search. On the surface exterior searches sound simple. You and the dog go outside, search an area and find the odor. In reality the exterior searches can have a number of complicating factors, including humidity, heat, time of day, wind strength and direction, all manner of critters and the great outdoors. Even if the dog can ignore the environmental distractions, many struggle to ignore the environment, wanting to dig, eat grass, potty or roll around. This is where having a search routine can help your dog differentiate between working and playing when outside.

Where container and interior searches often have distractors added by the time the dog reaches the second (or intermediate) level, exterior searches rarely have added distractors until the highest level, if at all. Intentional distractors might be toys, food, people, sounds or flashing lights. Some exterior searches may contain vehicles, and the description of a vehicle can vary between organizations. Some organizations state that anything with wheels is a vehicle (including hand trucks, toy cars, wagons, etc), other organizations are more specific. And some organizations require dogs to successfully complete both an exterior search and a vehicle search. Again, although a vehicle search sounds like a relatively simple thing, air currents can do odd things when going around vehicles, causing air to pool in places that will trap a dog not committed to finding the actual source of the odor.

At our very first trial, which was held at a boarding kennel, there was a cat sitting right on the start line as Jack Jack and I approached. I held my breath, as he'd never been exposed to cats at that point and he had a tendency to be reactive to other dogs. Knowing that he had a job to do, he was already air scenting and he completely ignored that cat when we got to the start line. He has also ignored gopher holes, people and the attraction of peeing on a tree while completing exterior searches.

The trickiest element of exterior searches is air flow. How strong is the wind? Is it whipping around the odor, pulling it far from its source and distributing it in a pattern best described as willy-nilly? Is the air a damp wind, which traps odor, or a dry wind, which spreads it out. Is the air hot? Heat causes odor molecules to dissipate more quickly, which means it can be a challenge for the dog to find the source as there isn't a strong scent plume for them to catch. Are you working alongside a building with doorways, window frames or alcoves? If so, be sure to search those areas thoroughly, to ensure that the odor isn't located in a corner, with a scent cone that just eddies within the framed in area without travelling too far out of it. I have watched many handlers use visual cues such as flags, tree leaves or even plucking a few blades of grass and tossing them into the air to determine wind direction and speed. When doing a search, knowing the wind direction allows you to place your dog in a starting spot that gives them the best chance of catching the scent cone quickly.

As far as vehicles go, remember to practice a number of different types of vehicles. Odds are that you will most likely see a personal vehicle of some sort used for most searches, but I have seen old farm equipment, a quad, an RV and heavy duty rental equipment used. Ensure that your dog is comfortable putting their feet up on such pieces, and even being lifted on to the deck of a piece of rental equipment. I know that not everybody can just rent a CAT and use that for practice, but any Home Depot or similar construction supply store should have rental equipment locked up outside (hopefully in their parking lot). If you are polite and promise not to damage the equipment, most stores are willing to let you practice on it. Just be sure to be very careful and to clean up after yourself (including the removal of any hides you placed). My friend and I have used shopping carts for practice, and I have even used my parents' wheelbarrow for practice when I was visiting them. As with each of the other search categories, your imagination is what limits you when finding places to practice nosework searches.

When doing exterior searches, don't neglect sidewalks, roads or the sides of buildings. As long as the safety of the dog, handler and officials can be assured, nothing is off-limits outside. I have seen judges place a hide in gravel, and that can be a difficult thing to communicate to your dog. Make sure you practice those kinds of hides, so your dog is truly prepared to search everywhere, not just in grass or on walls or vehicles. One judge placed a hide in the spot on a tree where the branch left the main trunk, about 3 feet off the ground. Handlers with male dogs were nervous that their dogs wanted to mark the tree, so they pulled their dogs away from the hide, not allowing the dogs to search thoroughly. This demonstrates why it is so important for the dog to be able to distinguish between work time and off time. Dogs should know not to potty when it is time to work. In all organizations that I'm familiar with, pottying in the search area is an immediate NQ.

It is also important to get your dog used to working with people nearby. Not the judge, as the dog should already be used to that, but spectators or even just the general public. If the trial is held at a school or a community building, there is no way to secure the entire area to prevent people from being outside, walking dogs or enjoying their day. Your dog needs to be able to work through the sounds of kids playing, dogs barking, people having a conversation and vehicles driving by. There may be a trial photographer taking photos (although if your dog is extremely sensitive, you can ask that the photographer not be present during your search), or there may be shadow judges. All of these are things that can completely derail a dog's search if they have not been trained to work through these things. Once your dog can successfully find odor in a number of locations, then you need to start adding in the background noises that are a part of everyday life.

In the next issue I will touch on two search elements that exist only in AKC competitions at this time—buried hides and handler discrimination.

Whether you intend to compete or not, nosework is a fantastic game for dogs. It is particularly good for dogs recovering from surgery or injury, or senior dogs. There is very little stress on the body, but it permits the dogs to use their natural talents to solve puzzles. It can help them relax (think of snuffle mats, which are very popular right now) and it can help tired them out. It is inexpensive to do, and I think your dog will surprise you with its capabilities. I encourage you to give it a try!

Happy sniffing!

CHARLES BORN (Regular Classes)

In 1964 my aunt Marguerite Manhart of Sugarbrook Kennels fame and one of the top black cocker breeders in the 50's and early 60's put a lead in my hands at a puppy match. From there Cocker Spaniels, the people and the club have been a part of my life. I was fortunate to grow up with and be mentored by her and so many other famous breeders from the past. After college, as a breeder/owner/handler we resumed a small breeding program and I finished over 20 champions and numerous others for friends. When my career demands forced the end of our breeding program, I served as ASC Board Director, VP and President for 13 years. I've mentored many judges and had the pleasure of judging over 20 specialty sweeps and numerous all breed match shows. It was a thrill to breeder owner handle my own Futurity winner in 1985 and in later years judge bitches at the ASC National Futurity in St. Louis and the entire Futurity at the Flushing show in King of Prussia. As a Life and Hall of Fame member of the ASC, it's such an honor to be nominated to judge regular classes in 2020. Thank you for your consideration.

KENNETH 'CASEY' COOPER (Futurity)

I was born & raised in Detroit Michigan. At the age of 24, I met the late great Mike Kinchsular of Lurola Cocker Spaniels, that was in 1984. I couldn't have had a better mentor & teacher. After traveling to a few local shows in Michigan, we drove to my first summer national in Lincoln Nebraska as his brush boy & kennel help. A few years later Mike hurt his back and so it was up to me to take over as handler. After some ups & downs I was honored to show some very nice dogs for some of the nicest people you could ever meet. One of those dogs was "LUROLA'S BAD BOY" (co-owned and bred by Mike and me) who went onto win Winners Dog and Best of Winners. "Isiah" was the very first non-champion dog or bitch ever to win an Award of Merit from the open class under J. Forsyth at The 1991 ASC in Secaucus NJ.

Other highlights as a handler was winning a specialty BOB from the 6-9 puppy dog class at the Mid Michigan Cocker Spaniel Club. Winning ASCOB Winners Bitch & Best of Winners from the 6-9 puppy class in 1997 under Mr. Calvin Ward. I have also won several Sweepstakes, group wins & finishing over 30 dogs (many from the puppy class) during my time in the ring from 1988-1998. I am now living in Palm Springs California enjoying a great life with my husband G. Michael Crosby.

PATRICIA ELKINS (Futurity)

I am originally from the Dallas, TX area and started showing Cockers in 1998. I have 3 children and am a proud Army wife. Professionally, I am a Telecommunications Network Engineer.

Over the last 20 years I've bred 20 AKC champions as well as several champions in other countries. I pride myself on breeding dogs with excellent temperament and I'm proud to have bred dogs who have achieved titles in obedience, agility, hunting, tracking, and trick dog.

I am an ASC member, Washington State CSC member, & Secretary for the Bay Cities CSC. I am a conservation breeder and continually work on continuing education including breeding and structure seminars, ringside mentoring, and judging seminars. I am honored to be considered for judging the Futurity at our National Specialty.

MICHAEL FAULKNER (Regular Classes)

The sport of Purebred Dogs has been an integral part of Michael Faulkner's life. As a youngster Michael was active in Junior Showmanship and assisted his parents with their kennel and breeding program (Golden Retrievers & Black & Tan Coonhounds). In the late 1960's Michael acquired his first Golden Retriever, along with Field Spaniels in the 70s, starting a lifelong love for these two breeds.

During the late 1970's Faulkner pursued his education earning his BFA, MS.ED, from Alfred University, Alfred, New York while maintaining a breeding program and actively showing his Golden Retrievers, Field Spaniels, Springer Spaniels and Pointers. Upon the completion of his education Michael established a partnership with the late David White. For 12 years this team dominated the Sporting Group, completing championships in all of the Sporting breeds, along with numerous group and best in show winners in all seven groups.

Michael has owned, bred and or exhibited eleven multiple best in show winning Golden Retrievers along with owning and breeding champion, Field Spaniels, Pointers, English Springer Spaniels, Black & Tan Coonhounds, and Pugs. He owes his passion and knowledge of the various breeds to his "English Mum" Mrs. Peggy Grayson (judge/breeder/author) who unselfishly took him under her wing as a youngster (1974) providing decades of mentoring. As a student of the sport, Michael spent countless hours with many of England's great breeders including the late Rae Furness, Kay Holmes, Faith Gilham and many more over a span of forty plus years.

Michael 's vast understanding of the sport and the subtle nuances that make each breed unique is something he takes extremely seriously and refuses to compromise when evaluating breeding stock.

Faulkner retired as a professional handler in 1995 and immediately embarked on a judging career. Michael is approved to judge all Sporting breeds, all Herding breeds and numerous Hound, Working and Toy breeds. He is proud of his numerous national specialty assignment, international judging experiences, and multiple Westminster Kennel Club judging assignments.

Michael continues his Golden Retriever breeding program, is an active Board Member of Take the Lead, member of the GRCA and serves on the Breed Standard Committee.

When Michael is not judging dog shows he keeps busy with his artwork, kayaking, gardening, writing and serves as the Executive Director for a Health Clinic.

KEVIN FLINN (Regular Classes)

Thank you to the ASC members for this nomination to judge the 2020 National Specialty. I got my first cocker back in 2004, a R/W mail. I finished that dog owner handled at a specialty and I have been in love with this sport ever since. I bred a few very nice litters that did some nice winning, but for me, showing for others is what I enjoyed. Taking that young prospect and working with them and bring the best out of them for their owners. I can relate it now to having the grandkids, have fun and spoil them before you send them back home. Currently I am licensed to judge the Cocker Spaniel, but once I am done with my "day" job I hope to pursue additional breeds and groups. I never thought about judging, but with the convincing of Elaine and LaMar Mathis also Dick and Betty Duding I applied, so happy I listened to them. As a breeder judge I love to evaluate the future of our breeding stock and finding a well balanced Cocker that could work in the field all day long. For me there is nothing more pleasing to the eye then the silhouette of a cocker on the move.

Again, thank you for this nomination.

JOEY SERRANO (Regular Classes)

I bred cockers under the Derano's kennel name. I was very lucky to breed some very nice dogs that contributed to the breed. I have judged numerous specialties, several times at ASC as well as internationally. It is a honor to be considered to judge the American Spaniel Club show; it is the pinnacle show for our breed. Thank you for your consideration.

Spaniel Sleuths

Artifacts & Oral History Project

Sleuthing to identify a treasured inheritance

In October our ASC Secretary, Kathy Patterson was contacted by Catherine Durland who was looking for information on two trophies she recently inherited from her aunt. The two silver artifacts turned out to be from those won by the legendary Ch. My Own Brucie in 1939.

The first piece was a Hildreth K. Bloodgood Perpetual Memorial Trophy. The award was established in 1919 for the Best Cocker Spaniel at the annual American Spaniel Club Flushing Spaniel Show held now in January. In 1939, it was won by Herman Mellenthin who won it again in 1941. A commemorative piece is given to the owner of the Best Cocker Spaniel. The second piece was the P.A. Rockefeller Trophy for Best in Show won by Brucie in 1939.

With Brucie linked Brucie to the Bloodgood trophy and then to the Morris & Essex P. A. Rockefeller Best in Show trophy, Ms. Durland had her background. The Brucie connection with Herman Mellenthin fit what Ms. Durland knew of them. She said her aunt had been married to a Cacchio, grandson of Herman Mellenthin.

ASC Historical Archives committee member Kate Romanski suggested Ms. Durland contact the Morris & Essex club to let them know of her remarkable inheritance. They have a revival show every five years and Kate thought perhaps they might like to exhibit the P. A. Rockefeller trophy at that event. Ms. Durland said she would do so. We are fortunate that Ms. Durland shared pictures of both trophies we now have in our archives.

Oral History Project offers us and future generations a glimpse into Cocker Spaniel history

By Bobbie Kolehouse, Chair and Assistant Archivist, Historical Archives Committee

If you could have a conversation with anyone involved in Cocker Spaniels in the past—any period, any time, any one—who would you speak with? Whose brain would you pick to glean some wisdom or curiosity that is just outside of your knowing? What would you ask them? How would you use what you learned?

The American Spaniel Club's Oral History Project is an effort to capture today's history through interviews of club members in audio and video recorded formats that are archived. Charles Born is curator for audio recordings published on the ASC Historical Archives website as podcasts. Kathy Reid is curator for video recordings conducted at club national events that are available on the ASC club YouTube channel. All are stored in the club archives. Each one tells the story of the breed by the people who are making breed history today.

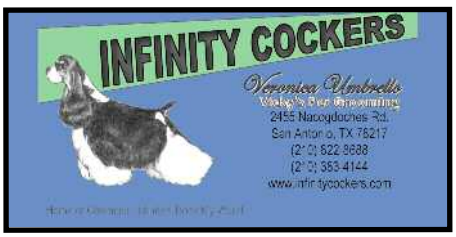

People are storytellers. Whether written or filmed or taped, we learn who we are, where we started and often guided in our lives from our stories. Documenting history sounds like a straightforward process, but it is more than recording of names, dates and events. It also includes the opinions, biases and judgements of the person telling the story. It is the job of the historian to place these components into their appropriate perspectives. Their job is to ask questions that have not been asked and to collect the reminiscences that otherwise might be lost to future biographers and researchers.

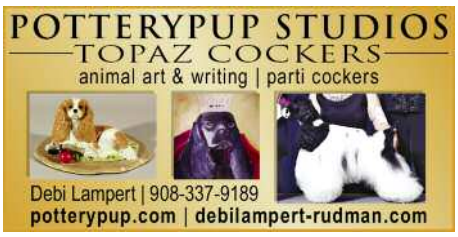

Oral history is the collecting of memories and personal comments we feel have historical significance using recorded interviews. Oral traditions are among the earliest recorded histories on earth. These oral histories were –and are yet—passed on generation to generation and oral interviewing has been part of that process from the earliest known records.

The oral history interview is conducted by a prepared interviewer, an interviewee and the recording of that exchange in audio or video format. These are then transcribed, summarized or indexed and placed in an archive to be used for research, excerpted for publication, radio or video documentary, museum exhibition, dramatization, or other public presentation.

It is a young project but already there are podcasts and videos available of members, some no longer with us, that offer us insights into the stories of the people who were dedicated to Cocker Spaniels. Visit the Historical Archives website and listen or watch them to learn about the people who have committed their lives in many ways to the breed and club—in their own words.

THERAPY DOGS LOVE PEOPLE and RATS!!!

Featuring the "Rat Pack": Suzie Q, MiMi Doll, DeeDee and Buddy

by Joyce McIntyre

Barn Hunt is a dog sport that is really catching on in Oklahoma and in other states. The Barn Hunt Association requires that the dog is registered with them and in doing so they receive their Barn Hunt number. You can go online www.barnhunt.com to register and receive a number so the dog can title in five categories—Instinct, Novice, Open, Senior, and Master. There are different levels of difficulty and the runs are timed according to the level of competition. Until recently Oklahoma has only had training and fun runs, but the Mid-Del Tinker Kennel Club has organized a Barn Hunt Club. Renee Morgan is the training director and one of their members has a wonderful, clean barn they have designed for training and practice. The club has held training and fun matches to comply for sanctioned trials. They have plans for two trials in the future—Summer Classic Canine Olympics, a five day show in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma June 26-30 and Claremore, Oklahoma.

The five levels of competition for titles are as follows:

INSTINCT: Course time is one minute and three tubes are in a row in plain view for the dog. One tube has a rat, one has rat litter, and one is empty (the tubes have probably all held rats at some time , but the dog is smelling or hunting for the tube with the live rat.) The dog has one minute to find the tube with the rat and the handler must confirm with voice that they have found it by saying "RAT" with a confident voice to let the judge know the rat has been located! The dog only has to qualify once for this title. RATI

NOVICE: Course time is two minutes and there are still three tubes with only one holding a rat, one with rat litter, and one empty. They are hidden covered with hay on the course with a straight tunnel. The dog has two minutes to go through the tunnel without help, have all four feet on at least one bale of hay, and find the rat. Again the handler calls RAT when they think their dog has found it. Passing this would be one qualifying run and three qualifying runs are required for the title of RATN. You can run Instinct and Novice concurrently.

Thanks to Mid-Del-Tinker Kennel Club for the training and encouragement for Barn Hunt

The tunnel

OPEN: Course time 2.5 minutes—2 rats, 1 litter, 1 empty. Three qualifying runs, tunnel with one turn, and climb hay for the title of RATO.

SENIOR: Course time 3.5 minutes—4 rats, 3 litter, 1 empty. Tunnel has 2-3 turns. A climb on a hay bale is also required. Three qualifying runs to earn the title of RATS (It's getting harder!)

MASTER: Course time 4.5 minutes—8 tubes are on the course with 1-5 tubes holding a rat. The tubes not holding rats will have litter. The number of rats is a mystery and when the handler thinks they have found all the rats, they let the judge know. Finding all the rats, climbing the hay, and going through the tunnel with 2-5 turns in 4.5 minutes is a qualifying run. It takes three qualifying runs to earn the RATM/RATCH title. This is very difficult, but good hunters can certainly do it!

Not all dogs have a hunt instinct, but Renee told me that they can be trained anyway. This may be an opinion, but I have seen it happened with one of the dogs we practice with. All dogs need an introduction to the rat smell as well as know that they are hidden, and they are trying to "find it"! Mid-Del Kennel Club gives that training called "Introduction" and are very helpful in training the handler to watch for signs that the dog has found the rat. They are sometimes hard to read! One of mine will sit and look at me when she finds the rat, one will stand over it and freeze in a funny position, and another will dig and scratch at the tube (no denying she has found it) when she has found her rat! It does take practice to learn to let your dog hunt and not talk too much to them as not to distract them from the smell. If they go through the tunnel and climb the hay right away, they have more time to hunt. If the rat is found first, the handler can secure the dog and call for a "rat wrangler" to remove the tube from the course. Time does not stop while the rat is removed, but it does give the dog a chance to finish the requirements without still trying to sniff the tube with the rat in it! They love to smell the rats!

One thing I found very interesting while training in Barn Hunt with another Cocker Spaniel team is that both our dogs are therapy dogs and they are under control. They don't go in three directions at once, but they seem to have that discipline that comes with therapy dog training. Renee, the training director, said she noticed that we are handling the therapy dogs with ease and they are not spooked about every little thing. Those little things could be a non-stop barking dog in a crate because the dog is anxious to hunt and knows why he is there. They are more confident in trying new things because they have been trained to handle different situations. The "Rat Pack" has had a lot of fun and meaningful time learning Barn Hunt. Any activity you do with your dog strengthens the bond and gives both of you more confidence working and enjoying the activities as a team. It also gives variety to their life and yours and gives them additional vocabulary! Yes, they have a huge vocabulary, but it never hurts to expand it!

THERE ARE SOME DO NOTS AND SOME DOS AND YOU MAYS IN BARN HUNT

DO NOTS

- Do not take anything into the course ring with you. Cell phone aren't even allowed in the blind (holding place for dogs that will be hunting waiting their turns. There is a certain number in the blind at a time).
- Do not "bowl" you dog out of the start box (a place that is marked for the starting place on the course). Just take your hands off your dog.
- Do not touch or step up on the hay bales or equipment on the course deliberately and do not touch your dog.
- Do not act unsportsmanlike, including scolding or grabbing your dog's tail or ears.
- Do not put your dog in a stay and go to the other end of the tunnel and call the dog through.
- Do not allow the dog to eliminate in the ring. May sure they have an opportunity to go before they run.

DOS AND YOU MAYS

- Do remove your dog's collar or harness and hand them off to the leash runner once in the start box. Dogs run naked!
- Do wait for the judge to say "Go" or some indications you may start.
- You may use obedience commands and talk to your dog.
- You may encourage your dog to search certain areas of the course.
- You may restrain your dog so the rat can be removed after they find it as long as no skin is pinched—Cup hands around the dog.
- Do call "RAT" in an unquestioning way.
- Do attach your dog's collar or hardness and leash before leaving the ring.

There is a complete list of rules and explanations on the Barn Hunt website. You will need a barn hunt number for each dog that is hunting. It is a one time registration and does not need to be renewed. I have had numbers for Suzie Q and MiMi for 4-5 years and just recently registered DeeDee when she started hunting.

There are some penalties such as 20 seconds for a false start (not waiting for the judge to tell you to start) and 10 seconds in instinct for the dog not being under control (that's where obedience, pet therapy, and other dog sports help).

The RAT PACK:
Buddy, Suzie and DeeDee

Disqualifications include dog aggression, unsportsmanlike conduct, dog eliminating in the ring, lack of control in Open or above, not following the Do Nots rules, and failure to report a bitch in season.

THE "RAT PACK' GOES HUNTING FOR THAT LITTLE THING IN THE TUBE

Mary Margaret Miller and Buddy and I, along with Suzie Q, MiMi Doll, and DeeDee have been training with the Mid-Del Kennel Club. All of these dogs are therapy dogs and they have been having so much fun hunting for rats. They patiently wait their turn to hunt and actually Suzie watches all teams on the course. We are allowed to watch the teams in practice, but in a trial we would not be able to watch if we had not run the course. The blind holds the five teams that are waiting to hunt. The "rat placement" is changed after five runs in a category. The dogs run by size—Small, Medium, and Large. They are divided by the height at the shoulder. Cockers run in Medium. Our therapy dogs do shine in the fact that they pay attention, are under control, and enjoy the fun of the sport without being afraid to accept the challenge of finding "their rat"!

BUDDY'S BEGINNINGS IN BARN HUNT:

By Mary Margaret Miller

I recently had the opportunity to take Buddy out to a friend's farm to try Barn Hunt. I had heard of it, but I didn't know any of the rules or details of the sport. Fortunately, the ladies running the course were well versed in both. After some explanations of the basics, we were ready to "meet a rat."

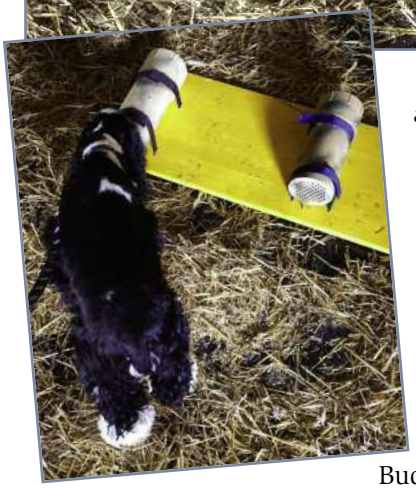

Buddy was first introduced to a rat in a wire cage. He was very interested in the rat and picked up the scent right away! Good boy! Then they placed the rat in a tube and showed Buddy that it was inside before shutting the lid. He was still fascinated with the rat.

They placed the tube on the board that Joyce described with two other tubes. Buddy found the rat very quickly. Renee, training director from Mid Del Tinker Barn Hunt Club, said that he showed excellent instinct. Definitely a "proud mom" moment for me!

Next, it was time to try the course! It was set up just like a competition course with the tunnel and plenty of places to hide the rat! Buddy and I walked around and he found the rat pretty quickly. He got very excited and dug at the hay and the tube when he found the rat.

Buddy has had some beginning agility training and that definitely helped him with the tunnel. He saw it and ran right through. I taught him the command, "up, up!" when I want him to jump up on something, so that worked perfectly as he hopped right up on a hay bale! We practiced more that day and one day the following week. Renee told me about Mid-Del Tinker's upcoming Barn Hunt lessons and Fun Trial on November 3 & 4 and encouraged me to come both days.

Yeah! Buddy found the rat

On Saturday, November 3rd we arrived in Midwest City bright and early and ready for our lessons! There were three ladies from the North Texas Barn Hunt Association there to help with lessons and to teach us all more about Barn Hunt. It was an amazing learning experience and a fun day with dogs. Buddy did his part quite well, but I still needed some work! I'm always so proud of Buddy when we are around other people and dogs. He is very calm and relaxed. I think Joyce is right about our dogs' therapy training. They have learned to easily adapt to different situations and take life in stride. The greatest part of participating in activities with Buddy is watching his confidence grow.

On Sunday morning, it was time for the Fun Trial. It was set up as if it were a sanctioned competition for titles. The North Texas girls guided us through every stage of the trial. Buddy competed in Instinct and Novice levels. During Instinct, he found the rat but didn't show much excitement about it. I waited too long for him to show some enthusiasm and unfortunately, we ran out of time.

Novice level was MUCH better for both of us. We headed into the course and, as I verbally encouraged him, he quickly found the rat. I did my part by signaling "Rat" to the judge. The rat wrangler came and removed the rat. Buddy ran through the tunnel and then hopped up on a hay bale. Success! We completed the course in the allowed two minutes! What a great feeling!

The judge tells all participants to "have fun with your dog' as we begin the course. I know Buddy has fun, but I need to remember to have fun, too! I get too caught up in the details sometimes and forget that it's OK to have a good time!

I plan to pursue earning Barn Hunt titles with Buddy. It will take some time and some travel, but it will be worth it. Like our therapy work, spending time together, learning, and having fun is good for both Buddy and me. I look forward to many more days of fun with my sweet boy!

Buddy's breeders are Carl and Mary Napper of Tumbleweed Cockers.

THE MCCOCKER GIRLS' EXPERIENCES IN BARN HUNT

Suzie Q, MiMi Doll, and I began out Barn Hunt introduction about 4-5 years ago when practice was just getting started. We attended some introduction classes and fun runs in a beautiful barn on a horse ranch. It was designed with lights for TV and even had people there to interview the beginners. I was interviewed as a beginning barn hunt handler and they took videos of Suzie Q as they were surprised to see a Cocker Spaniel in the mix complete with long coat! I thought they were just having some fun with us, but to my surprise, we were on the next week's show on a local TV station. Suzie was so curious about the rat in an open type wire cage. She was just so fascinated when the rat began to move. This was testing her interest and instinct to hunt. She became very animated to say the least. MiMi on the other hand just froze and didn't move while she was watching the rat. She was taking in all of the smell and sight of it. They behaved very differently in the introduction phase of the training. When it came to the instinct test of finding the rat out of the three tubes, each one quickly found their rat. Again Suzie was very sure of herself and scratched the ground under the tube and there was no doubt she had found her rat. I called" RAT" and it was about 30 seconds from the start of the instinct test. This was a fun match and she qualified for time and placed second. MiMi found the rat from the three tubes in about the same time, but she smelled all of them and went back to her choice and just stood over it frozen! I called "Rat" and sure enough she had found it. So far so good on their first try.

Next at this fun run came the course with the rats in tubes hidden in the hay. They both had had some agility training and had been through tunnels and both liked to jump up on things, so the climb and tunnel were done before we actually hunted the rat. Suzie did the tunnel, climb, and found her rat (complete with scratching the ground and tube) in 22 seconds! Yes, I was surprised to say the least. There was no doubt that she found it by the way she acted. That run for her was also second place! MiMi took a little more time to make up her mind just exactly where the rat was, but she found the one she wanted to claim and just stood over it in a frozen position. Great! I have two dogs that show me where the rat is in almost opposite ways, but I learned to read their signals. She went through the tunnel and climbed the hay after finding her rat and was in qualifying time. I was very proud of these two and also glad I had found an activity that we could really have fun doing. Being obedience trained and therapy dogs, they were easy to control and hunted instead of running here and there.

Suzie Q and MiMi Doll tired from practicing Barn Hunt

The lady that was conducting the training and was working to become a judge so we could actually have some trials in our area, moved to another state and that training was no longer available.

Fast forward 4-5 years and barn hunt training became available to us again. We found another group that was training at a horse ranch in another town. DeeDee had joined the pack and she had never been exposed to barn hunt. We play a game in the house with hidden kibble and I tell them to "find it". It is just a simple exercise for scent work. DeeDee was the best of the three at it even though she hadn't really been taught to hunt. We all know that Cocker noses work well. She is a very patient hunter and won't quit until she has a find. The introduction part of the training was a little funny with DeeDee. She wanted it to move so she moved around and around the cage the rat was in. She was just like Suzie as she was fascinated with the movement. I thought that I had a great hunter in DeeDee. When it came to finding the rat in the three tubes in plain sight, she nailed it. Next we went to the course with the hidden tubes. She knew she was looking for something because I told her to "find it"! She caught a smell and really began to look and sniff around. She acted strange I thought when she sat and looked at me. She would sniff the hay and sit and look at me. I didn't know how to read her and the instructor said, "She is telling you the rat is right here"! No kidding! Every time she took a practice run, she would sniff and then sit and look at me.

DeeDee sees and smells the rat in the transparent training tube

DeeDee hunting: now where is that little guy?

I would call "rat" and sure enough the rat was there. Now that was different for sure. I learned a lot from the different ways my dogs told me they had found their rat.

The tunnel was a different story with DeeDee. I would tell her "in" and she would go it and come right back out the same entrance. She had no clue what she was supposed to do. This was training so the instructor kept her at the entrance while I went around and called her. She came in a hurry. We did this a couple of times and the light came on in the attic! She had it now I thought, but it did take a few more passes through before it became natural. I need to buy a play tunnel and work with her as she has never had agility training. She is a very calm and sweet girl and her desire to please really shows.

We have trained with the Mid-Del Tinker Barn Hunt Club the last few months at a nice barn close to me. I have never been able to train close to home and it has been so enjoyable. I took DeeDee and Suzie Q several times to their training and I am so proud of both of them. Suzie is still way ahead in her communication when she find the rat. She gets excited and animated but that's Suzie! DeeDee is very laid back and calm and just sits and looks at me. Dee is not really sure the tunnel is the best place to be, but if I let her hunt and then tell her "go in", she will do the tunnel really well. Climbing the bale of hay is absolutely no problem. I use "up, up, up" to get in the car, on a chair, or my lap. They have that down really well. My three therapy dogs—aka "rat hunters"—were bred by Jan Taylor of Tailormade Cockers. They are all three Tailormade for whatever we decide to try and have fun doing it.

I am looking forward to the trials in Oklahoma City during the Summer Classic Canine Olympics held the 26-30 of June. It is a five day show with conformation as well as performance dog sports. Mid-Del Tinker Barn Hunt Club will host a barn hunt trial on Saturday and Sunday of this show. They may possibly have a show in Claremore , Oklahoma the last week-end in March.

I highly recommend barn hunt as our Cocker Spaniels are very good hunters and have a lot of fun. These therapy dogs love people, but they also love the RATS! We have practiced at the barn close to me several times and my dogs know when I turn into the driveway. Now that's a sign of great hunters!

I need to add that there are specific guidelines on the handling of the rats in and out of the tube. Their care and safety is extremely important. Tubes must be held and carried horizontally and the rats take turns being in the tubes as to not get them too hot. These rats are family pets and are tame. They actually like having the dogs around. I know that sounds strange, but it is true!

If you need more info on Barn Hunt go to www.barnhunt.com and there you will find much more info than I have given. Mid-Del Tinker Barn Hunt Club has a facebook page with info as well. Check the trial schedules on the barnhunt.com website to find out where they are being held and attend to watch this fascinating sport. Better still, plan to participate! Hope to see some of you at the Summer Classic Canine Olympics Show June 26-30. The Cocker Spaniel Club of Central Oklahoma will have a supported entry specialty again this year.

As a final note: I hope you have learned something about this new sport and can enjoy it with your Cocker Spaniel. I know some of you already are involved with it. Our therapy dog "Rat Pack" are looking forward to more fun runs, matches, and trials in our area. While we are waiting on hunting rats, we will be putting smiles on faces with our therapy visits.

"Brody"

- Thank you Sherry Blondheim for leasing Gabby to me and to Marci Wilson for letting me use Stryker to create my beautiful boy, Brody.
- A huge thank you to Candace Omatsu for finishing Brody's Championship in four outings and only needing two points for his Grand Championship.
- Thank you to Lisa Arnett for showing him at the ASC National.
